

Celebrating Personal MWSA Milestones

Use this space to keep track of your personal MWSA milestones and document how you will celebrate! Celebrating these signposts of your victories can be done in simple ways such as sharing your success with a colleague, taking a walk, or buying a new book, or perhaps your MWSA team might even come up with a creative way to commemorate personal high points! Keeping a record of these personal milestones is important because it reminds you how far you've come, that the hard work you are putting into the alignment and change process is making a difference, and it helps you recognize the strengths you bring to the collective group (for more on a strengths-based approach that acknowledges your strong points, check out Kobett & Karp, 2020).
