ACTIVITY 2: SORTING AND CLASSIFYING

LESSON 3

How Are Dreams Presented in Jane Eyre?

'I thought the swiftdarting beam was a herald of some coming vision from another world.

Chapter 2

LESSON 3

How Are Dreams Presented in Jane Eyre?

'When you came on me in Hay Lane last night, I thought unaccountably of fairy tales, and had half a mind to demand whether you had bewitched my horse: I am not sure yet.'

Rochester to Jane.

Chapter 13

LESSON 3

How Are Dreams Presented in Jane Eyre?

'Till morning dawned I was tossed on a buoyant but unquiet sea where billows of trouble rolled under surges of joy. I thought sometimes I saw beyond its wild waters a shore, sweet as the hills of Beulah."

Jane

Chapter 15

LESSON 3

How Are Dreams Presented in Jane Eyre?

'The thought of Mrs. O'Gall and Bitternutt Lodge struck cold to my heart; and colder the thought of all the brine and foam destined, as it seemed, to rush between me and the master at whose side I now walked!'

Jane

Chapter 23

LESSON 3 How Are Dreams Presented in Jane Eyre?

'Your pleasures, by your own account, have been few; but I dare say you did exist in a kind of artist's dream-land while you blent and arranged these strange tints.'

Rochester to Jane.

Chapter 13

LESSON 3

How Are Dreams Presented in Jane Eyre?

'The glen and sky spun round: the hills heaved! It was as if I had heard a summons from Heaven – as if a visionary messenger, like him of Macedonia, had enounced - "Come over and help us!"

Jane

Chapter 34

LESSON 3

How Are Dreams Presented in Jane Eyre?

'Besides this earth. and besides the race of men, there is an invisible world and a kingdom of spirits: that world is round us. for it is everywhere.

Helen Burns to Jane.

Chapter 8

LESSON 3

How Are Dreams Presented in Jane Eyre?

'What a still, hot, perfect day! What a golden desert this spreading moor! Everywhere sunshine. I wished I could live in it and on it.

Jane

Chapter 28

LESSON 3

How Are Dreams Presented in Jane Eyre?

'And if I had loved him less I should have thought his accent and look of exultation savage: but, sitting by him, roused from the nightmare of parting – called to the paradise of union – I thought only of the bliss given me to drink in so abundant a flow."

Jane about Rochester.

Chapter 23

LESSON 3

How Are Dreams Presented in Jane Eyre?

"What have you heard? What do you see?" asked St. John. I saw nothing; but I heard a voice somewhere cry, "Jane! Jane! Jane!" nothing more.' LESSON 3

How Are Dreams Presented in Jane Eyre?

'It had formerly been my endeavour to study all sides of his character; to take the bad with the good; and from the just weighing of both to form an equitable judgment.

Now I saw no bad.'

Jane

Chapter 18

LESSON 3

How Are Dreams Presented in Jane Eyre?

'All was changing utterly, with a sudden sweep. Religion called – Angels beckoned – God commanded – life rolled together like a scroll – death's gates opening, showed eternity beyond: it seemed, that for safety and bliss there, all here might be sacrificed in a second.'

Jane

Chapter 35

Chapter 35

How Are Dreams Presented in Jane Eyre?

'You have seen love: have you not? and, looking forward, you have seen him married, and beheld his bride happy?'

The gypsy woman to Jane.
Chapter 19

LESSON 3

How Are Dreams Presented in Jane Eyre? 2-16

'The utmost I hope is, to save money enough out of my earnings to set up a school some day in a little house rented by myself.'

Jane

Chapter 19

LESSON 3

How Are Dreams Presented in Jane Eyre?

'It spoke to my spirit; immeasurably distant was the tone, yet so near, it whispered in my heart, "My daughter, flee temptation!"

"Mother, I will."

Jane

Chapter 27

LESSON 3

How Are Dreams Presented in Jane Eyre?

'A vision, as it seemed to me, had risen at his side. There appeared, within three feet of him, a form clad in pure white – a youthful, graceful form: full, yet fine in contour.'

Jane

Chapter 31

LESSON 3

How Are Dreams Presented in Jane Eyre?

'Where was I? Did I wake or sleep? Had I been dreaming? Did I dream still? The old woman's voice had changed her accent, her gesture, and all were familiar to me as my own face in a glass.'

Jane

Chapter 19

LESSON 3

How Are Dreams Presented in Jane Eyre?

"My little friend!" said he, 'I wish I were in a quiet island with only you; and trouble, and danger, and hideous recollections removed from me."

Rochester

Chapter 19

LESSON 3

How Are Dreams Presented in Jane Eyre?

'During the past week scarcely a night had gone over my couch that had not brought with it a dream of an infant.'

Jane

Chapter 21

LESSON 3

How Are Dreams Presented in Jane Eyre?

'My future husband was becoming to me my whole world; and more than the world: almost my hope of heaven.'

Jane

Chapter 24

LESSON 3

How Are Dreams Presented in Jane Eyre? $$^{2-25}$$

'I thought of the life that lay before me – your life, sir – an existence more expansive and stirring than my own: as much more so as the depths of the sea to which the brook runs, are than the shallows of its own straight channel.'

Jane to Rochester.

Chapter 25

LESSON 3

How Are Dreams Presented in Jane Eyre?

'He smiled; and I thought his smile was such as a sultan might, in a blissful and fond moment, bestow on a slave his gold and gems had enriched: I crushed his hand, which was ever hunting mine, vigorously, and thrust it back to him red with the passionate pressure.'

Jane

Chapter 24

LESSON 3

How Are Dreams Presented in Jane Eyre?

'That bitter hour cannot be described: in truth,
"the waters came into my soul; I sank in deep mire: I felt no standing; I came into deep waters; the floods overflowed me."

Jane

Chapter 26

LESSON 3

How Are Dreams Presented in Jane Eyre?

'On sleeping, I continued in dreams the idea of a dark and gusty night. I continued also the wish to be with you, and experienced a strange, regretful consciousness of some barrier dividing us.'

Jane to Rochester.

Chapter 25

LESSON 3

How Are Dreams Presented in Jane Eyre?

'In pondering the great mystery,
 I thought of Helen Burns, recalled her dying words – her faith – her doctrine of the equality of disembodied souls.
 I was still listening in thought to her well-remembered tones – still picturing her pale and spiritual aspect.'

Jane

Chapter 21

LESSON 3

How Are Dreams Presented in Jane Eyre?

'I walked a little while on the pavement after tea, thinking of you; and I beheld you in imagination so near me, I scarcely missed your actual presence.'

Jane to Rochester.

Chapter 25

LESSON 3

How Are Dreams Presented in Jane Eyre?

'I was following the windings of an unknown road; total obscurity environed me; rain pelted me; I was burdened with the charge of a little child; a very small creature, too young and feeble to walk.'

Jane to Rochester.

Chapter 25

LESSON 3

How Are Dreams Presented in Jane Eyre?

"And you," I interrupted, "cannot at all imagine the craving I have for fraternal and sisterly love. I never had a home, I never had brothers or sisters; I must and will have them now."

Jane to St. John.

Chapter 33

LESSON 3

How Are Dreams Presented in Jane Eyre?

'I was transported in thought to the scenes of childhood: I dreamed I lay in the red-room at Gateshead; that the night was dark, and my mind impressed with strange fears.'

Jane

Chapter 27

LESSON 3

How Are Dreams Presented in Jane Eyre?

'My living darling! These are certainly her limbs, and these her features; but I cannot be so blessed, after all my misery. It is a dream; such dreams as I have had at night when I have clasped her once more to my heart, as I do now; and kissed her...'

Rochester

Chapter 37

LESSON 3

How Are Dreams Presented in Jane Eyre?

'Looking up, I, with tear-dimmed eyes, saw the mighty Milky Way. Remembering what it was – what countless systems there swept space like a soft trace of light – I felt the might and strength of God.'

Jane

Chapter 28

LESSON 3

How Are Dreams Presented in Jane Eyre?

'I began to recall what I had heard of dead men, troubled in their graves by the violation of their last wishes, revisiting the earth to punish the perjured and avenge the oppressed.'

Jane

Chapter 2

LESSON 3

How Are Dreams Presented in Jane Eyre?

'I climbed the thin wall with frantic, perilous haste, eager to catch one glimpse of you from the top: the stones rolled from under my feet, the ivy branches I grasped gave way, the child clung round my neck in terror, and almost strangled me: at last I gained the summit.'

Jane to Rochester.

Chapter 25

LESSON 3

How Are Dreams Presented in Jane Eyre?

'I was experiencing an ordeal: a hand of fiery iron grasped my vitals. Terrible moment: full of struggle, blackness, burning! Not a human being that ever lived could wish to be loved better than I was loved.'

Jane

Chapter 27
