

Organizing Materials at the Partner Reading Station

Nonfiction

When studying NONFICTION, choose these kinds of text for the Partner Reading station:

- Familiar books from read-aloud
- Familiar books from guided reading (that pairs can reread)
- Text that matches students' reading levels
- Short text (that can be read in one sitting)

Informational Books	Informational Articles	Biographies	Procedural Text	Argumentative Text or Persuasive Text
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ● Books that match what you're studying in social studies or science 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ● Magazine articles ● News articles 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ● People from popular culture ● Historical figures ● People whose lives have made a difference 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ● Things kids can make or do by following directions (books and selections from children's magazines) 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ● News or op-ed articles from children's newspapers ● Select articles from local news, cut and pasted on colored paper
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ● Graphic organizers you've taught with (enlarge and laminate, or place each in a clear plastic sleeve with thin dry erase markers for kids to share) ● Conversation cards you've taught with ● Familiar anchor charts (mini version) 			*See Simply Stations: Listening and Speaking for ideas to adapt for Timeless Standard 4.	