

THANK YOU

I would like to thank Jean Blaydes (<http://www.abllab.com>) and Paul Zientarski (<http://www.learningreadinesspe.com>) for the inspiration to use Brain Breaks in my classroom.

I would like to thank John Ratey MD (<http://johnratey.com>) for his work and research that backs up movement in the classroom.

Thank you John Medina (<http://brainrules.net>) for your informational book on the brain.

Thanks go out to Scott Miller and the whole Naperville Central High School Math Department, Naperville IL for their many ideas and encouragement.

As a math teacher, I really appreciated the help Karen Conway gave me in editing this book.

I would like to thank my family for their patience as I constantly nagged them to try new Brain Breaks every dinnertime. Lastly, I would like to thank my wonderful wife for helping me put the actions into words and for all of the editing that needed to be done.
