Inventions That Should Be Real

There are many different things being made every day all around the world. Some

(so, also, three) inventions I would love to be real are number 1: an animal communicator so we could

(so, also, three)
always know what they are saying and we can talk to them. Another cool invention would be a car that runs on air/water. I have heard that it has been invented already, but it would be nice if they would actually start selling them. I have also heard of a

(so, also, three) pen that you touch on the color you want and it changes to that color so you can write with any color you want. I'm not sure if it's invented yet but it should be. It would also (so, also, three) (so, also, three) be cool to have waterproof phones without having to buy a case to make it waterproof.

And lastly a food maker of some sort, or a bathroom in your car, or separators from others. Those are just a few things I would definitely buy.
