

All right

Proof:

all right = all wrong

Ex:

Everything is (all wrong) all right.

PRACTICE THE CONVERSATION:

A: Will you read the sentence, please?

B: Everything is all right.

A: Great! Wait . . . how did you spell all right?

B: A-l-l space r-i-g-h-t.

A: Two words?

B: Two words. Yes.

A: Oh noooooooo. It's one word.

B: I'm sure it's two words.

A: Can you prove that?

B: Sure I can. Everything is all wrong.

A: Well, you're so right! It is two words.
