You know what makes me mad? I'll tell ya. Whenever you're at a restaurant and you drink soda with too much ice. Like c'mon lady/dude. You've had someone give you too much (uncountable) ice and want less of it. Even if you want less, (uncountable) you can't do anything about it because it would be rude to ask to have your drink sent back. If you were to return the drink there would probably be spit in your food. The smartest thing to do is ask for less (uncountable) ice so they (uncountable) actually give less. (uncountable) One more tip, make sure you ask for less ice every time you get a refill.
