November 3

This week's fantasy football was pretty interesting. I was losing (win) to Phillip 60–153. Then

I had two receivers play. One got me 15 points, and the other got me 81 points. In my mind, any player who gets over 15 fantasy points has had a good week. But anyway,

I am now trailing Phillip 150–103. I still have one player left to play. He is one of the best in the NFL. He never loses. (win) He got me 52 points last week. While I was watching the Texans game (when my guy got 81 points), I remembered that fantasy basketball was going on, so I ran to my phone to see if I won. I never lose. (win) I won and I thought to myself, one down, a lot more to go. No one likes to lose, (win) especially me.

Just one more Ba-da-bing:

   I walked into the gym after not going for a month. I shot my first basket, and I thought,

I still got it.

November 5

Today is Tuesday. I did lose (win) to Phillip by 16 points. I am now 6–3. I play Phillip again this week and all of my starters are playing so it should be better.

   Start pushing myself harder. Great vocabulary quiz. I just got an 84 on my test, but I am winning in fantasy basketball 11–2. The Spurs also won in double overtime yesterday so that made my day ok too.
