How to Survive a Horror Movie, Part 1

Tip one—don't be the stupid person. In all horror movies, there is at least one stupid person who has no chance of surviving. That person is the person who, A—thinks it's a good idea to split up. (If you're in a group, the killer will have a harder time killing you if you are all together.) B—wants to go after the killer on their own because the killer killed someone they liked or because they want someone to like them. C—thinks it's safe leaving when it's clear it isn't.

(silent e)

(silent e)

(silent e)

Tip two—don't be the person who wants to take charge. The killer will kill that person.

How to Survive a Horror Movie, Part 2

(silent e)

Tip three—don't be the hero. Don't be the person who runs around saving everybody.

Don't save someone just to be killed right after.

(silent e)

Tip four—don't play by the rules. The killer will not be playing by the rules so why should you? The killer will have special abilities to know where you are and since they have wall hacks, they will be able to see you at all times.
