I Had a Weird Dream

So I've heard that dreams are based on some of the last things you remember, but last night my dream came from nowhere. Last night in my bed I slept easier with the sound of Rhett and Link (two awesome YouTubers I listen to every week day night).

I slept on my dad's spare Temper-Pedic pillow; it was easier to sleep than ever! As I dozed off into the world of dreams, I awoke and saw a world of computer animations.

The genre of animation was something like World of Warcraft. I saw my friends as mythical creatures (mostly dwarfs, elves, and knights, etc.) Seeing everyone in battle against demon-like goblins, I drew my sword and wildly chopped off heads and limbs of the goblins to save my friends (Annabell and her sister Star, William, Ben, Asher, Anael, Claire, Lindsay, Talia, Kennedy, and Preston). This encouraged me to get World of Warcraft.
