(I swims, you swims, he swims)
My brother swims well.

PRACTICE THE CONVERSATION:

A: Will you please read the sentence?

B: My brother swims well.

A: Do you see a verb?

B: I do! Swims is a verb.

A: No, I'm afraid not.

B: I think it is.

A: Can you prove it?

B: I swims, you swims, he swims?

A: It sounds weird in the first two, doesn't it? But in the third one, it works. So you're right! Swims is definitely a verb.
