Divergent!

(gerund)

Best movie ever! The action, tension, fighting. It was awesome and when I say awesome

(gerund)

I may or may not mean the fighting. Tris killed people (I want to say who but I don't know if you read the book so I'm not going to tell you) and hurt people. People killed people and hurt them. I'm not saying it is right to do that or that when the Dauntless hurt and kill people it is "brave" but I am saying I was sitting at the movie theater and saw the action start in the movie Divergent and I thought this was amazing, that watching is kind of fascinating . . . for me. I'm more of that fighting, violence, action girl who likes fighting and seeing it on screen. They didn't film the part when someone (not naming) get stabbed in the eye with a butter knife. Again, violence isn't right, but we do watch it for entertainment. Have you ever thought about what faction you would pick if you had to? Surviving would be difficult. I think I would be Dauntless, only if I was divergent like Tris and could hide it. If I could not hide it, then I'd have to run away before they kill me.
