

Acknowledgments

This book comes from a deep place and a longing to bring emotions and truth into the open and have them received. To those in my life who have welcomed my frustration, my verbal first drafts, my venting, and my linguistic polishing so my voice could be heard, I am forever grateful.

To my parents, Richard and Myrna Abrams, and my brother, Adam, for their love and support.

To my friends, Eric Booth, Jen Wakefield, Greg Matza, John Hebert, John Fredrich, Deb Burgard, Linda Michael, Susan Burns, and Ann Idzik, who all have watched my unfolding as a writer and consultant and were my biggest cheerleaders.

To all my professional colleagues at Palo Alto Unified School District who gave me space and encouragement throughout the development of this book.

To every workshop participant who allowed me to push them out of their comfort zones and who pushed me to hone my craft and share this work with others.

To everyone at Corwin Press who helped bring this book to fruition, especially my editor, Dan Alpert.

And to Art Costa, my mentor and friend, who has encouraged me and supported me to think and grow and learn throughout this process.

I hope this book sparks its readers to push themselves and their institutions to be more authentic and truthful so those within the system can thrive and do the good work we need to do for the students who come through our doors.
