

Jot Thought

Personal Awareness

Reflect upon the intersectionalities that are meaningful for you. Be real in this space as you explore past and present realities of who you are.

	As a child, which of the following dimensions of identity were pronounced for you?	As an adult, which of the following dimensions of identity are pronounced for you?	As an educator, which of the following dimensions of identity are pronounced for you?	Which ones are the most important to you now?	Which ones do you believe others typically notice about you?	Which ones impact your existence the most in society?
Age
Appearance
Body image
Cognitive ability
Dialect
Education
Ethnicity
Family structure
Gender expression
Gender identity
Geographic location
Health status
Immigrant status
Indigenous origin
Language
Mental health status
Nationality
Parental status
Physical ability
Professional status
Race
Relationship status

(Continued)

(Continued)

Religion/ Spirituality
Sexual orientation
Skin complexion
Socioeconomic status
Stature
Other

Which dimensions of identity have been most prevalent throughout your life?

Do the members of the collective share your dimensions of identity? How so?

What did you experience from this engagement activity?
