RESOURCE 4.2
Using Images in Collecting Common Assessment Data

Select an image that represents a universal experience and appeals to a wide range of students. Or better yet, have students nominate photos that perhaps they have taken or have viewed in social media (that match a set of agreed-upon criteria). Make sure that the image does not have any inherent bias or sensitivity issues. Then invite multilingual learners to respond to these suggested prompts in the language(s) of their choice.

What do you see? Describe what stands out to you, using details.	What are your feelings when you see this image? What does the image remind you of?

What are you thinking? What might you be doing in this image? What might happen next?
