| Master Schedules                        | Base teacher assignments on the interdependence of the strengths of the teachers and the goals of the students.  |   |
|   | <ul> <li>Ensure the master schedule represents the unique needs,interests, aspirations, and skills of the entire learningcommunity and the resources available to support them.</li> </ul>                                       |   |
|   | Build opportunities for consistent collaborative conversationsaround curriculum, instruction, and assessment to determine whois benefitting and who is not.  |   |
| Family andCommunityPartnerships | <ul> <li>Continuously learn from and leverage the funds of knowledgeof students and families.</li> </ul>  |   |
|   | <ul> <li>Nurture and foster relationships within the families andcommunities to empower members to be involved, informed,and active in learning experiences.</li> </ul>  |   |
|   | <ul> <li>Design structures in which dynamic family and communitypartnerships work collaboratively in the best interests ofstudents.</li> </ul>   |   |

| Resourcing               | <ul> <li>Utilize resource levers (people, time, and money) by spendingmore on students who face greater challenges in order toaccelerate student learning and enhance engagement acrossdimensions of identities.</li> </ul>                    |  |
|--------------------------|---|--|
|                          | <ul> <li>Position our expert teachers (Hattie, 2012) who are culturallyfortifying and knowledgeable in the service of our mostmarginalized students.</li> </ul>   |  |
|                          | <ul> <li>Organize opportunities for collaborative structures thatemphasize and promote the well-being of all members of thelearning community.</li> </ul>   |  |
|                          | <ul> <li>Measure the impact of strategic resourcing on the mission,vision, and goals of creating transformative, equitable learningenvironments.</li> </ul>   |  |
|                          | Use reliable measures and tools to assess the curriculum and assess for biases.   |  |
| Climate andCulture   | <ul> <li>Identify current realities that prevent the learning communityfrom coming together to focus on shared values, individualassets, and equity of voices.</li> </ul>   |  |
|                          | <ul> <li>Create shared values that strengthen theschool-life experiences for all by cultivating a sense ofurgency to dismantle systems of inequities and practicesthat perpetuate stereotypes and biased mindsets.</li> </ul>                  |  |
|                          | <ul> <li>Collect observational data on practices that foster collective,culturally relevant thinking and actions that enhance all aspectsof the learning community.</li> </ul>  |  |
| DisciplinaryPolicies | Identify root causes that contribute to inequities in discipline practices.   |  |
|                          | <ul> <li>Eliminate punitive structures that exclude students from thelearning community, which results in "prison to pipeline"manifestations that directly and indirectly push students ofcolor out of school.</li> </ul>                      |  |
|                          | <ul> <li>Implement restorative practices, act upon teachable moments,and reinforce the value of self-regulation in order to repairrelationships, foster personal reflection, strengthen a sense ofbelonging, and reclaim community.</li> </ul> |  |
